

ANREP Northcentral Region Webinar Strengthening the DEI Lens: What Does Diversity, Equity and Inclusion in Natural Resources Mean for Me and My Institution?

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5TH 2021
11AM ET / 10AM CT

Events of the past eighteen months related to COVID and racial injustice have had many organizations, disciplines and communities continuing or beginning intentional dialogues on improving diversity, equity and inclusion outcomes.

What can individuals and institutions do in this process, including those working in Natural Resources spaces and disciplines? This session will encourage participants to think about opportunities and barriers for change at the personal, interpersonal, institutional and cultural levels and provide some practices that can help support more diverse, equitable and inclusive outcomes for all.

Guest Speaker:

Dionardo Pizaña is the diversity, equity and inclusion specialist for Michigan State University Extension. He has over 25 years of experience developing, teaching, and facilitating diversity education programs, curriculum and community-based efforts across the state of MI and the country. As a member of the administrative leadership team, he provides direction, support and guidance for MSU Extension's DEI commitments.

This webinar is free to Northcentral ANREP members. Not currently a member? Visit <https://anrep.org/join> to learn more about the benefits of becoming a member.
